Dear Art:

I realized as soon as I hung up the phone this morning that I have already been asking you for your services and getting them without any compensation for yourself.

I am aware that the sums of money I talk about are not anywhere near in the range of those that some writers muster, but may I make this proposition? If I can't get the material Ray wrote for Huie for direct quotation, I will pay for your services at $250 for an opportunity to look at and reproduce for my use a copy of the material without the right to quote it. Also, for this fee I would like the right to look at and perhaps make some copies of the other material you have in your files about and from Ray.

Thanks for your many helpful kindnesses.

Sincerely,

GJ
